Property Description

This contemporary tropical villa in Uvita, Costa Rica has been designed as a spatial experience that flows in constant dialogue with the surrounding jungle. Elevated and carefully adapted to the natural topography, the home unfolds across multiple levels, allowing light, ventilation, and landscape to connect organically throughout the property. The layout guides you naturally into an open-concept social area, where the living room, dining space, and kitchen merge seamlessly through floor-to-ceiling glass and folding doors that open completely to the outdoors. The kitchen stands as a central design element, featuring high-end natural stone countertops with organic veining that reinforce the dialogue between architecture and nature. Outdoor terraces and the private pool, surrounded by mature tropical vegetation, create an intimate, resort-style atmosphere ideal for relaxation and entertaining.
