Property Description

Recently finished in 2014, this newly constructed house is a must see. Situated on the hillside in Manuel Antonio, the home captures stunning sunsets year round, and constant breezes from the near Central Pacific Ocean. The builder cut no corners while constructing this home and all appliances, furniture, and electronics are state of the art. The property is just shy of an acre in size and there is room for some small expansion. The property is visited daily by the abundance of wildlife in the Manuel Antonio area including monkeys, sloths, and toucans. When entering the main house you enter into the living and kitchen area where entertainment can easily be fulfilled. Also on the first level there is the master suite with an enormous master bath with full Jacuzzi and his and her sinks. The wood work is amazing throughout the entire home including cabinetry in the kitchen and the master bath.
