Property Description

Perched high above the Central Valley sits this one-of-a-kind American architect designed and built luxury dream retreat. Located in Grifo Alto, just outside of Puriscal de Santiago, this home offers the rare combination of contemporary cosmopolitan style living in the quiet, idyllic countryside. One hour to all the amenities San Jose has to offer and equally close to some of the country's most pristine Pacific coast beaches, the setting is ideal for a retirement home, vacation rental, weekend retreat or everyday living. With renovations completed at the beginning of 2019, this home takes full advantage of its surroundings with high ceilings and strategically placed full height windows to maximize unparalleled views of the Central Valley and flood the space with natural light. While small in its footprint, the home was designed to maximize space without sacrificing the luxuries typically associated with more spacious properties.
